

RESEARCH DESCRIPTION:

My focus is studying the organization and relaxation dynamics of nematic liquid crystals. It has been shown that interfacial interactions are key in governing flat-panel liquid crystal display technology. The primary goal is to develop methods in which the energy efficiency of displays is improved by enhancing the dynamical response of the liquid crystals.